Parent Teacher Association

In the wake of globalization, homes with working parents are a common sight. Parents tend to spend 10-12 hours outside homes and hardly get to spend quality time with their children. Most working parents are oblivious to activities at school. Their involvement with the academics and co-curricular activities of their children is very limited. Many parents tend to think that the responsibility stops with the admission of their children in school and expect the rest to be followed up by the school authorities.

Parents' involvement with the child is crucial to the child's overall development. In order to give a platform to the parents to meet the teachers and talk to them about their child's concerns and make queries regarding the school and their child, the Parent Teachers Association has been formed in Sikar.

With the PTA the parents realize what goes into the working of a school, the problems faced by and how they can be overcome with a little co-operation and participation by parents. The Parent Teacher Association indirectly or directly helps improve the life of students not only in school but also at home. The end result would be a united effort to bring forth into society well educated and socially responsible students.
